What it's all about

By PAUL ALLEN

AMERICANS ARE DRIFTING into barbarism, Dr. Frank Bohn told a conference of New Jersey clubwomen. Undoubtedly that statement thrilled the good ladies, but we doubt if any of them believed it. A barbarian is "an uncivilized person; a cruel, savage, brutal man." So says Webster. People will remain civilized as long as they live in cities. Surely, Dr. Bohn doesn't think that there is any great movement back to the woods, does he?

MEN (AND PROBABLY WOMEN, too) are less cruel, less savage and less brutal than they ever have been before. People pay well to see men act in a cruel, savage and brutal way. Mr. Dempsey and Mr. Tunney recently proved that by collecting nearly a million dollars between them for entertaining a big mob of our present gentle gentlemen. We might be going somewhere, but it's not toward barbarism.

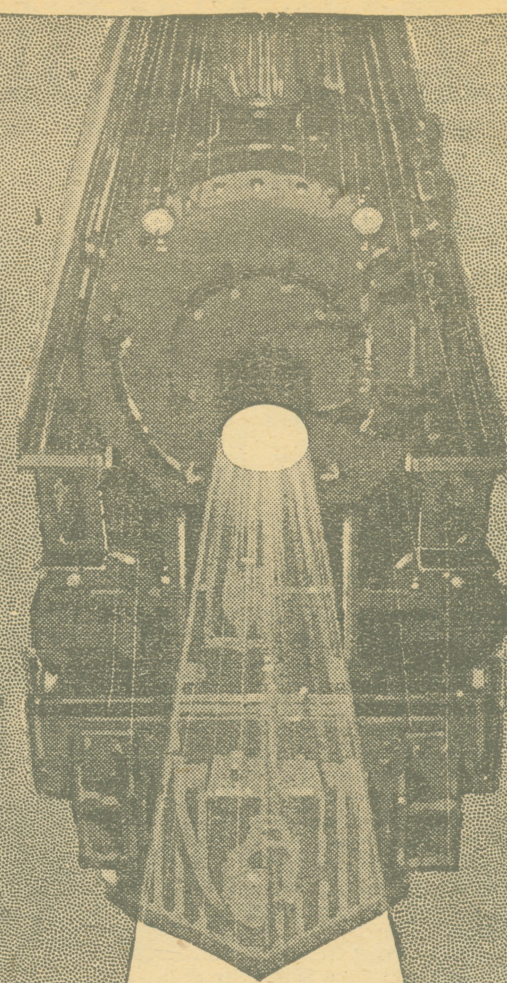

THERE ARE ALWAYS PEOPLE who go wrong. Murderers and criminals of every degree are with us now, just as they have been with the people of every nation under the sun. Dr. Bohn thinks things are worse today because of machinery. But machinery doesn't make people good or bad. It provides good people with means of becoming better. It provides bad people with ways of being bad. To scrap machinery and get back to nature would injure the good people much more than the bad.

DR. CHARLES PLATT SAYS that one thing that breeds crime is that so many children have so little opportunity to play. He wants to establish national buildings where children will be taught. Great buildings are not necessary for that. Proper attention to children's needs by public authorities is, however, important. If every city taught children to play as earnestly as it tries to jail and electrocute criminals, crime would shrink.

NO WOMEN WILL BE ON THE jury to try Mrs. Hall and her relatives for the murder of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. This is unfortunate. Women's understanding of the motives of this terrible crime would add to the value of whatever verdict might be reached. Men are apt to be too sentimental. The great drawback to a proper verdict in any murder trial is that no normal man—and no normal woman—willingly condemns another to death. Abolish capital punishment, and murder verdicts will be less shocking.

BERLIN'S VERY LIGHT BLUE laws are being modified. Night clubs and restaurants are now permitted to stay open until 3 a. m. instead of 1 a. m. The Berliners don't like being forced to stay up two hours longer and refuse to spend money in the wee small hours. A committee of Yankee night club managers should be sent for to provide some real features. People are always willing to stay awake and to come across for what entertains them.
